8941. The frozen body of Mrs. F. M. Cadman, 959 Fifth street, was found by her husband lying beside a post about 300 feet south of the Merrill avenue crossing in Fifth street at 11:30 o'clock last night. She had been struck and instantly killed by the 7:35 o'clock southbound passenger train on the Northwestern railroad. Four hours before the finding of her body, Mrs. Cadman had left her home to spend the evening with the children of her son, R. M. Cadman, 1014 Oak St. In her hands she carried a sack of Christmas candy for the children. The candy was found strewn on the snow near the body. About five minutes after Mrs. Cadman left her home the southbound train thundered past. Close to the track on the south side of the crossing is a large patch of icy surface. It is believed that Mrs. Cadman slipped upon this ice and fell backward across the track. The family believe that she lay unconscious across the tracks helpless to move, and that she did not realize it when she was struck by the pilot of the passenger train. A few minutes after the departure of Mrs. Cadman two of her daughters started for the home of their brother where the mother was expected. There they learned that she had not reached the place and they believed that she stopped in the home of a neighbor to visit. No alarm was felt until about 10 o'clock when telephone calls were sent out around the neighborhood .... She is survived by her husband and ten children: Mrs. George Brown, Beloit; C. E. Cadman, South Beloit; Mrs. H. R. Fenska, Madison; R. M. Cadman, Beloit; Mrs. Marjorie Brown, Beloit; Percy Cadman, Beloit, and the Misses Lenore, Beth, Gladys and Dorothy Cadman, all of Beloit. He was born in Germany, emigrated to England in 1846, and to America three years later, landed at New Orleans and traveled by boat to St. Louis and then to Weston. In 1851 he made a trip across the plains to New Mexico but did not like the country and returned to Independence, Mo., where he worked at his trade. In the spring of 1854 he came to Kansas and took up a claim on the Wakarusa river below Lawrence, but figuring that that territory would be the battle-ground of pro and anti-slavery fractions, he abandoned the claim and moved up country to Grasshopper Falls, now Valley Falls, where he found three men in a tent preparing to build a mill and utilize the water falls for power. He staked out a claim, fenced in 12 acres and planted sod corn and raised a crop. Government surveyors came along and located a corner stone in the middle of his claim, which spoiled it. Mr. Ernest sold his improvements, and in the spring of 1857 filed on the claim where he died, three miles east of Arrington .... Burial in the family cemetery on the farm .... 9328. A message came the other day announcing that Mrs. Julia A. Coffin had departed this life. She passed away on New Year's day, 1916, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. W. H. Roby, at Timbo, Arkansas, where she has made her home since her fall and personal injury, a few years ago. Mrs. Coffin came to Kansas and the place where Holton now stands with her husband, John B. Coffin, and her daughter Ada in 1856. At that time the slavery agitation was stirring the country and the slave interests, feeling their power giving way, where struggling to fasten its institution upon Kansas by methods most unjust and un-American. The Kansas question was engrossing the attention of the whole people. Young men were hurrying here from the South to aid the slavery propagandists, and others were coming from the North and East to assist in upholding the principles of free labor and free soil. The people of Milwaukee, Wis., sympathizing with the Kansas effort to erect a free state, called a mass meeting and organized a Kansas Immigration Society. A wealthy and influential resident of that city, Edward D. Holton, assisted in organizing and equipping a little colony consisting of six small families and four unmarried men who were anxious to try their fortunes in the new and promising territory of Kansas. Early in the month of May, 1856, this colony started on their long and tiresome journey in several kinds of vehicles. They had to travel most of the way without roads or bridges and were three months on the way. They had no guide and after passing through Iowa and into Nebraska had to follow Indian trails. General James H. Lane had organized a large immigration company in Iowa and were on their way to the Kansas country south of the Kaw. After the Wisconsin party reached Nebraska General Lane often called at their camp for conference. A part of his immigrants, probably three hundred, united with the Wisconsin colony on the Nebraska side of the Missouri river, and from there they followed practically the same trail, until they reached Elk creek. They crossed the creek and then separated, the Lane company going on south through the Pottawatomie reservation. The Wisconsin colony being pleased with the site for a location made claim to the land and went into camp a little south and east of the Price spring, from which spring they obtained their water supply. They had with them a surveyor, with his instruments, who surveyed and staked off the townsite and named it Holton in honor of the man who had helped them from the beginning. The colony remained here for a few weeks and as they would soon be facing the question of necessary supplies for the winter, and the further question of protection against lawless raids, they lowered their tents and moved on to Topeka. There were four or five small river steamers designed for the Kaw river service and were used when the water was high to supply the settlers as far up as Topeka, and sometimes one or two of these went as far up as Junction City. Topeka was a desirable place for winter quarters. In the spring of 1857 the Holton party was reorganized at Topeka preparatory to returning to their claim. A few of the original members decided not to return but some Topeka Volunteers joined the majority. They then sent a committee in advance from Topeka to Holton to ascertain if the claim had been "jumped." This committee investigated and reported there were no contests to the claim so the company, including the Coffin family, returned and commenced building a town. Mr. Coffin was by trade a carpenter, a useful and helpful occupation. After the county was organized he was chosen to a county office, that of register of deeds, and made an obliging and efficient officer. He departed this life a few years ago and so far as known the original members of the Holton company are all gone except Ada Coffin Roby. Mrs. Coffin was prominent and active in the organization of the church, school and Sabbath school in their new community. Everything was in a crude state and there was much work at hand. She with Mrs. Fred West and Mrs. John Davis made the first flag for use on public occasions and donated it to the town. It was spread to the breeze the first time on the 4th of July, 1857 .... The Holton Recorder, January 13, 1916.

9372. The neighborhood of Springdale school in Adrian township was the scene of a double killing Monday evening. Guy Morrow, a farmer about 35 years old, is dead from a bullet wound through the heart inflicted by J. W. Taylor, a neighboring farmer, aged about 45 years. Taylor died early Tuesday morning from the effects of two bullet wounds near the heart, inflicted by Morrow. The fight occurred last Monday afternoon in Morrow's yard. A feud had existed between the Taylor and Morrow families, dating back a few years and starting with school matters. Each man lives only a short distance from the Springdale school house. Taylor's have some grown sons and Morrow's have three children. To avoid quarreling and get out of the neighborhood, Guy Morrow had recently sold his farm, had a sale and was preparing to move to another part of the state, where he had brought a half section of land. Monday afternoon he was returning from Emmett where he had gone with a load of goods, and in passing the school house, he had an altercation with one of the Taylor boys in which blows were struck. Taylor's team ran home and he followed it. Later when the elder Taylor heard of the fight he became excited and started for the Morrow home. Bystanders tried to persuade him not to go and endeavored to get him to go home. But he persisted and in front of the Morrow home he paraded up and down in an excited manner, using abusive language. Mrs. Morrow came out of the house and asked him to desist and leave. Finally armed with a club he approached the Morrow house. Morrow came out of the house and met him in the yard. In the row that started Taylor is said to have struck Morrow on the head with his club and knocked him down. Then both men drew revolvers and when the smoke had cleared away it was found that Morrow had a bullet wound near his heart and Taylor had two holes in his chest .... after the shooting a large crowd of farmers assembled, but there was not further disorder .... the death of both men relieves the necessity of any arrests or prosecution. While it is an awful price to pay for peace, it is hoped that the atmosphere will be cleared and further disorder avoided .... The funeral of Guy Morrow will be held at the Morrow home .... the funeral services of J. W. Taylor will be held at Circleville this afternoon.

9506. The death of Frederick C. Nuzman, the pioneer citizen of Circleville, occurred Monday at 1:30 o'clock. Death culminated from a protracted illness starting some months ago with a stroke of paralysis. He lived to the advanced age of 84 ... At the grave in the Circleville cemetery, the Masonic order, of which Mr. Nuzman was a member, had charge of the service. At the time of his death Mr. Nuzman was surrounded by his children, Mrs. Henry J. Allen of Wichita; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Nuzman, Scott Nuzman, Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Fairley of Holton, Mr. and Mrs. Scott R. Moore, of Holton, Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Gray of Topeka and Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Riederer of Holton. Mr. Allen was in St. Louis and was not able to be present. Besides his seven children he is survived by seven grandchildren. Mrs. Nuzman's death occurred about ten years ago. Frederick C. Nuzman had been a resident of Kansas since 1860, coming to Jackson county during its territorial days. He was born in the Grand Duchy of Mecklenburg, Germany, March 6, 1832, and was the son of Frederick and Mary (Flascone) Nuzman, who were likewise natives of Mecklenburg, and who emigrated to America in 1857. Mr. F. C. Nuzman was reared on a farm in his native Germany, and received the advantages of a good education in the mother tongue. Upon becoming his own man, he resolved to seek his fortune in America, and accordingly embarked on the German vessel "Elizabeth," which landed him safely in New York City, in December, 1855. Thence he proceeded to Laporte County, Ind., where he engaged as a farm laborer two years. In the mean time he formed an acquaintance of a most estimable young woman, Miss Catherine Hendricks, a native of Indiana, to whom he was married Dec. 11, 1858. The newly wedded pair commenced the journey of life together on a rented farm, and remained in the Hoosier state until 1860. Coming then to Kansas, Mr. Nuzman purchased 175 acres of raw land in Soldier township, from which he preceded to build a homestead ... continuing his residence there until 1865. Then selling out he purchased a farm in Jefferson township, upon which he lived until 1880. He then invested a portion of his capital in a stock of hardware, from which he built up a good trade, and in the management of which his sons have succeeded him. Mrs. Catherine (Hendricks) Nuzman departed this life at her home in Jefferson township in 1867, leaving no children. In 1869, Mr. Nuzman contracted a second marriage with Miss Mary, daughter of Robert Anderson, one of the pioneer settlers of Soldier township. There were born of this union seven children, Elsie, Nora, deceased, Frederick, Scott, Inez, Gladys and Vivien. Mr. Nuzman was a member of the Methodist Episcopal church ... During the progress of the Civil war Mr. Nuzman, in the fall of 1862, enlisted as a Union soldier in the 11th Kansas Infantry, and served three years. 9529. Rev. E. J. Stanley Writes of Early Events. .... Circleville was the last place where the writer attended school. It was kind of combination of the North Kansas Seminary and the public school, and was taught by Rev. Bracken, the pastor of the M. E. church, assisted by his wife. That was about the year 1868-69 - 48 years ago ... About the year 1895, while living at Corvallis, Montana, I received a letter from a lady living in Nebraska, who signed her name Mrs. Lenore Wolfe, and who was none other than our former Circleville teacher, Mrs. Bracken. She was twice a widow, still a teacher and desired a position as a teacher in Montana. I secured a school for her at a place where I was preaching, and she came out and taught it, giving splendid satisfaction. That fall she was employed in the primary department in the school at Corvallis .... While several good people kept vigil in our home where she boarded, she breathed her last .... We laid her remains in the Corvallis cemetery .... Miss Cryssie Myers of Circleville and myself have taken it upon ourselves to see that the grave of good woman ... is marked by a suitable monument, as soon as sufficient funds can be gathered for the purpose. I have thought that there may be some of her old pupils or friends in Jackson county, who would be glad to contribute to such a worthy purpose .... The Holton Recorder, July 6, 1916.

Sarah Miranda Hatch was born March 21, at Waynes County, New York. Her father died in Michigan when she was only five years of age and the family returned to Nunda, New York, where she lived until her sixteenth year. In 1850 she was united in marriage to Joel C. Chase. In 1853 they removed to Iowa where they resided until 1861, when they moved to Wisconsin. At the outbreak of the Civil war her husband enlisted from that state and during his absence she cared for her mother and four children. In 1878 the family came to Holton where she has lived until the present time .... After a brief illness she ended her earthly course March the third, only about eight months after her life's companion had finished his earthly journey. The surviving children are Ed S. Chase, of Manhattan, Kan.; Mrs. Sadie George of Holton, and Mrs. May Bogle, of Atchison, Kan. Ten grandchildren and three great-grandchildren also survive her .... Her patriotism was of a signal type. When on one occasion a daughter of seven was fatally ill and her husband was acquainted with her condition, he answered that he was sorely tempted to return home even if permission could not be obtained. She wrote at once that "she could endure the sorrow of burying their child alone better than she could endure the knowledge that her husband had deserted his country's flag." In early life she was under the influence of the Universalist church .... The Holton Recorder, March 8, 1917.

9551. (cont'd) Mrs. Ed. Comer died at her home in the east part of Holton last Friday night of an affliction similar to blood poisoning .... The Holton Recorder, August 3, 1916.

A homeless boy, whose name is Charley Lakin, and who ran away from the Jackson county hospital near Holton a week ago, is at the police station, and Fred C. Snyder, chief of police, is attempting to get him a good job on the farm. The lad is 16 years old and makes a good appearance, in spite of his ragged clothing. He has bright, snappy black eyes and speaks correct English, although he says he left school at Holton in the sixth grade. "My mother died at Holton a year ago, and my step-father, Ed Comer, who drives a laundry wagon there, told me not to hang around there any more," the boy said this morning. "I went to Topeka and fed a job press in a printing office there until a month ago, when I returned to Holton and they sent me to the county poor farm. I just about worked my head off, but they wouldn't buy me any clothes, or anything, and I ran away. My father was a painter in Chicago and was killed in a fall when I was two weeks old. I was the only child, and my mother sent me to St. Louis, where I lived with my uncle. My mother went to South Dakota nine years ago, and married my step-father there. When they moved to Holton, my mother wanted me to come back, and I did, and was happy until she died. I have a half-brother and two half-sisters in Holton, and my step-father is supporting them, but he thought I was old enough to shift for myself. I'm willing to work, and would like to have a job with a good farmer. I know a lot about farming, and I just love horses." - Atchison Globe. The Holton Recorder, July 26, 1916.

Charley Lakin, the homeless lad of 16 years, who recently ran away from the Jackson County hospital near Holton, has been turned over by Fred C. Snyder, chief of police, to Fred Matthias near Lancaster. The boy likes the farm and expects to make his permanent home on the Matthias farm if everything remains congenial. Atchison Globe. The Holton Signal, August 2, 1917.

9624. Eleanor Babcock was born in Ohio August 26, 1843. She moved to Illinois when about six years old and was raised in Grundy county. She and William Spiller grew up together, attending the same school. The romance of youth culminated in a romance of the war of Rebellion. Mr. Spiller had enlisted at Morris, Ill., and then gone to Kankakee to be mustered into service. The mustering officer was not present when he arrived. He had taken his marriage license with him and he secured a five day's furlough and went back home where at the residence of the bride's parents he was united in marriage with Miss Eleanor Babcock, in Braceville township, Grundy county, Illinois, on August 9, 1862. One of the interesting incidents connected with this wedding was the fact that Mr. Spiller swam Mazon creek which was at flood stage in order to secure a boat in which to bring the minister across the stream to perform the ceremony. Mr. Spiller immediately after the wedding returned to his regiment, was mustered into the service and served three years, lacking fifteen days and was mustered out at Galveston, Texas .... They celebrated their golden wedding four years ago. They moved to Kansas in the fall of 1871 and located in Marshall county. 9697. George A. Allen, Sr., who died recently at his home eight miles southwest of Wetmore, was one of the pioneer residents of that vicinity. He was a large land owner and purchased his farm from the government for $1.25 per acre. He had lived on his farm continuously for sixty years. He lacked but two months of being ninety years old. He is survived by three sons and two daughters. His death was caused by a recent fall, in which he dislocated his shoulder and injured a side. The Holton Recorder, December 21, 1916.

George Augustus Allen, school master, lawyer, editor, pioneer, farmer ... was born Feb. 2, 1827, in Attleboro, Mass., and died Dec. 10, 1916, at Ontario, Kan. Pilgrimage 89 years, 10 months, 8 days .... This pioneer was the seventh child of Josiah Allen, Jr., and his wife, Rowena Tingley, both of Attleboro, Mass. The father was born Aug. 22, 1784, and died April 18, 1864, aged 80 years. The mother was born Dec. 5, 1787, and died June 15, 1874, aged 87 years. They were united in marriage Sept. 22, 1811, at Attleboro, Mass. To them were born ten children, six daughters and four sons, he being the youngest boy. His early education was in the rural schools and Andover Philip Academy to prepare for college. Graduated from Brown University at Providence, R. I., in June, 1852, receiving the degree of bachelor of arts; later received the degree of master of arts. He studied law and was admitted to the bar by the supreme court of Boston in May, 1855, and practiced law at intervals for three years. At 19 years of age he taught his first district school in Massachusetts, during vacation, while a college student, and at various times for over thirty-five years taught in the district schools; was city superintendent and principal of a private academy. His school work began in Massachusetts, then to Rhode Island, thence to Missouri and Kansas. He established the Phelps Co. Seminary in Missouri and conducted it for five years. He was the editor of the first newspaper, the "Attleboro Bulletin," ever published in the town. In 1858, accompanied by three other Attleboro men, he came to Kansas, and after traveling about for some months, pre-empted a quarter section of raw prairie land on the parallel, one mile west of Ontario, which he has held dear as his home until his death, 58 years later. On July 12, 1863, he was married to Miss Anna Maria Ellis, also a native of Attleboro, Mass. She also taught the Ontario school, and cared for her baby during school hours by keeping him in his cradle in the school room. Is it strange that such a son should remain in the school room calling? But the trials of the frontier life wore heavily upon her sensitive nature and on Dec. 14, 1888, she was laid to rest among the familiar scenes of her childhood's home. To this union were born five children, who survive him; George A., Jr., now principal of the Sabetha schools, was married to Maud McComas of Circleville, Kan., on July 3, 1897. 9724. Wm. A. Blossom was born on his father's farm in Pittsfield, Rutland County, Vermont, July 21, 1834, and died at this home in Holton, Jan. 7, 1917, aged 82 years, 5 months and 17 days. He grew to manhood on the home place. When of age he went to Boston, where he clerked for some time in a hardware store. He then returned to his home. In 1856 he went to Cass County, Iowa, where he obtained work by the month on a farm and remained in that state until fall, when he came to Jackson county, Kansas, then to Calhoun county and took up a claim at Cedar creek. This claim he sold in in the fall of 1857 and took another on section 57. Since coming to Kansas he has engaged in farming and stock raising, with the exception of the time he was in the war. He was married to Miss Sallie E. Fogle at Kansas City, Mo., on Jan. 4, 1864. From this union eight children were born, four of whom still live. Mr. Blossom has had a meritorious career in the Civil war, as shown by a cherished paper complied from official sources of the U. S. Army and Navy Historical Association, signed by H. W. Kellogg, historian, bearing the date July 13, 1899. The certificate is beautiful and bears the seal of the association. From this the following facts are gleaned: Wm. A. Blossom enlisted from Jackson County, Kan., Aug. 22, 1862; was mustered into the United States service at Leavenworth, on Sept. 14, following, as private Company B, 11th Regiment, Kansas Volunteer Cavalry, under Capt. Martin Anderson and Col Thos W. Ewing, Jr., to serve for three years, or during the war. His regiment was assigned to the 3rd Brigade, Blunt's division, 7th Army corps, Army of the Frontier. He participated in the following engagements; Old Fort Wayne, Cane Hill, Boston Mountain, Prairie Grove, after which he was in the hospital at Ft. Scott suffering from pleurisy and pneumonia from January 22nd to until April 1st, 1863, when he rejoined his regiment. The summer of 1863 and 18654 were chiefly spent in encounters with and pursuit of rebel guerrillas under Shelby and Quantrill who were constantly harassing the Union troops making numerous raids through Missouri, Arkansas and Kansas, until Price's invasion. Afterwards he took part in engagements at Independence Mo., Little Blue, Big Blue, Bryon's Ford, West Port, Trading Post, Marais des Cygnes, Mine Creek, Little Osage, Charlotte, Weber's Falls. The campaign again the Indians in Western Kansas, Wyoming and Colorado, two battles at Platte Bridge, Sand Hills and others, guarding the stage line during the balance of his service. He was promoted to corporal and to 4th sergeant and was honorably discharged September 20, 1865, at Fort Leavenworth, on account of the close of the war. While intercepting Shelby's guerillas during a raid, he was severely injured, being kicked by a horse, fracturing his left leg below the knee. He was a member of Will Wendell Post No. 46, G. A. R., Department of Kansas. He was raised in the Congregational church but a long time ago affiliated with the Methodist Episcopal church. He moved from the farm to Holton seven years ago this fall ... on November 9, received a paralytic stroke ... He leaves to mourn his loss a widow, Sallie E. Blossom; two sons, William A., and Fred O.; and two daughters, Mrs. Laura Feese and Mrs. Maud A. Tipps, all of Holton. 9733. The real tragedy in the play, "The Country Doctor," given by the Walnut Hill young people at Amusement hall Friday night, took place the moment the curtain dropped. The curtain had not fully descended when the news was broken to two sisters on the stage that their mother had just died. Half a minute before, the heroine of the play, Miss Ruth Woodruff, was wreathed in smiles at the denouncement of her make-believe love affair. Now she reels on her feet at the news she hears, she grows, rigid and swoons. Her sister, Mrs. Homer Lee, whose name does not appear on the bills, screams in uncontrollable grief .... During the play Homer Lee, who had the role of the stage driver, was called to the telephone office. There he received word that his mother-in-law Mrs. Herman T. Woodruff, had just died of heart disease at the family home on the county line between Walnut Hill and Hoyt ... The Woodruff family - including the married brothers and sisters were noted for the unusual intensity of their devotion to one another and especially to the mother ... Heart disease was the cause of her death .... Her husband was alone with her neighbors and the nearest telephone, on the O. N. Wilson ranch, was more than a half a mile away. The end was sudden. Mrs. Margaret Malinda Woodruff was born in Daviess county, Mo., near Civil Bend, June 16, 1858, and died at her home on the county line January 12, 1917, so that her age at death was 58 years, 6 months, and 29 days. .... Charles Hayden was born July 25th, 1846, in Bedford County, Pennsylvania, and died in Holton, Kansas, on the 2nd day of April, 1917. He was born on a farm and received his early education in the common schools of Bedford county. He afterward entered college at Waverly, New York. He was admitted to practice in all courts of New York on November 18th, 1868, and in the same year formed a partnership with John S. Hopkins and opened a law office in Waverly. This partnership continued until February 20th, 1869, when Mr. Hopkins withdrew from the firm and came to Kansas. Mr. Hayden left Waverly for Holton, Kansas, March 27th, 1869, and arrived in Holton May 5th, 1869. The following is taken from his diary referring to his arrival in Holton .... Arrived at Holton at 4 p.m., where I met Hopkins and we drank to Kansas of the bottle of Canada whiskey which I had in my trunk." It was here that Mr. Hayden began his active career. He arose rapidly in his profession, and soon became one of the leading lawyers in the state of Kansas. He was admitted to practice in the 9875. Mrs. Charles Cocherell received a message Tuesday of the death of her brother, Thomas Chrisman, who was drowned near Rawlins, Wyo. Her brother, George Chrisman left last night for Rawlins. The body had not recovered up to the time of the receiving the message. The Holton Signal, May 24, 1917.

Last Sunday afternoon, Roscoe Countryman and John Chrisman arrived in the city with the body of Tom Chrisman, who was lost in the Sweetwater river about four weeks ago. The body was located early on Sunday morning by Lon Claytor, who saw it floating down the river as he looked from his bedroom window. The body had evidently come to the surface some time during the night after being submerged for 27 days. The story of the drowning as told by the brother of the deceased man as is follows: On the morning of May 21st Tom started out riding a vicious horse, but one that was known to be a fine swimmer, to wrangle some horses belonging to Lon Claytor. To reach the horses, it was necessary to cross the Sweetwater. The ford had washed away and the place where he entered the water was quite a steep bank. It is believed that Tom rode to this place and then stopped his horse and loosened the cinch. He then removed his overshoes and tying them to the saddle horn, urged the horse to take the water. It is thought that when the horse jumped from the bank into the stream, he turned a complete somersault and pinned the rider underneath probably knocking him unconscious. The horse managed to reach the bank and was later picked up by another employee of Mr. Claytor .... The horse took the river just below the Claytor dam, while the body was picked up about two miles down river. Tom Chrisman was 30 years old last December. He had been employed in the Sweetwater section for the past eleven years .... The body was shipped yesterday morning to the old home of Mr. Chrisman at Holton, Kansas .... - Rawlins, (Wyo) Exchange. Thomas Elmer Chrisman was born at Ridgley, Platte county, Mo., November 18, 1866 and came to Kansas when a child, where he grew to manhood. About twelve years ago he went to Rawlins, Wyo., where he was drowned, May 21, 1917, age 30 years, 6 month and 2 days .... The remains were laid in the Olive Hill cemetery. He leaves a father and mother, seven brothers and two sisters, John Chrisman of Rawlins; George, Frank, Paul, Spencer, Nelce, and Carl of Soldier; Mrs. S. S. Myers of Soldier; and Mrs. Chas. A. Cocherell of Holton ... The Holton Signal, July

9909. Ralph Vansell. One of the most popular young men of the Muscotah neighborhood was killed by lightning during a thunder storm at 3 o'clock last Saturday afternoon, and Hugh Burnett, a farm hand, was so badly stunned that he was unconscious several hours, and is still in a bad way, one side is apparently paralyzed. He has no use of one arm and one leg. Ralph Vansell, George Vansell, a brother, Hugh Burnett and Roy Lewis ware storing hay in a big barn on the Vansell place a mile and half north of Muscotah, when the storm came up. The bolt that struck the barn did not set it on fire, but Ralph Vansell's clothing was literally thorn to shreds. George Vansell and Roy Lewis were shocked, but other wise uninjured. The carried Burnett, who showed signs of life, to a water tank and attempted to revive him. Ralph Vansell was dead; he was instantly killed. - Atchison Globe. The Holton Recorder, July 12, 1917.

9910. Rev. Geo. H. Clarke, 72 years old, a veteran of the Civil war and a pioneer Kansas missionary, died Saturday afternoon, June 30, at this home in Oakland, after an illness of several months. He was a former pastor of the Baptist church of Holton .... The Holton Recorder, July 12, 1917.

... sketch from Sunday's Capital .... The account of the principal events in Mr. Clark's life begins at the outbreak of the Civil war, when he enlisted in Company K, First Wisconsin Infantry. From the date of his first battle until the campaign at Chickamauga he was in every battle in which his company was engaged. His bravery quickly won him recognition from his superiors and just before the campaign at Chickamauga he took an examination that entitled him to a commission as first lieutenant. His commission was never received, for he was taken prisoner in the next battle and he was doomed to spend the next seventeen months of his life in the southern prisons. During his captivity he was at Libby, Danville, Florence and Andersonville. Four times he made unsuccessful attempts to escape. He was successful on his fifth attempt. The first time he was successful in getting outside the prison lines, but was betrayed by a negro who he thought was his friend. The second attempt he was captured after the prison bloodhounds had trailed him several miles. The third time he took for the swamps and for thirteen days he lived on corn and swamp water. He became ill with the southern fever and gave himself up to his former captors. He ran into a confederate officer on his fourth attempt to escape and was forced to wear a ball and chain on his return to the prison. He finally succeeded in walking across the guard line, fleeing to the marshes into the Federal lines February 22, 1865. Since the war, February 22 has been doubly observed by Mr. Clark. It is the date of his final freedom from the southern prisons in addition to being Washington's birthday. Doctor Clark was ordained to the ministry in 1868 and in 1877 accompanied by his wife and several children, started on an 800 mile trip in a covered wagon to Kansas to settle on a homestead given to Civil war veterans, who had been honorably discharged. After he had established his farm in Osborne county he began preaching. Churches and Sunday schools were organized in sod houses and dugouts and he was soon recognized as an efficient organizer. He established the first Baptist church in Russell and was the first pastor of the Baptist church at Osborne. He later established churches in Downs, Waldo, Blue Ridge and Fairport. He was secured by the American Baptist Missionary association to act as their representative in the district he had organized. He continued his work as a minister until three years ago, when he retired as minister of the Baptist church in Hamlin, Kan., and moved to Oakland .... The body will be taken to Waldo, Kan., where the burial will take place in the Grand Center cemetery .... He is survived by his wife and six children, Mrs. Wm. P. Miller of McLouth; Mrs. C. J. Barber of Topeka; Mrs. Samuel Clark, of Hutchison; Mrs. R. E. Henry of St. Joseph, Mo.; the Rev. G. H. Clark, Jr.; of Blue Rapids, Kan.; and Clarence C.
